

New York Campus Overview, Tuition and Fees

GIA® in New York is located in the International Gem Tower – right in the heart of the famed Diamond District in Manhattan. The Gemological Institute of America® campus is a few blocks away from Tiffany & Co., the Cartier Mansion, Van Cleef & Arpels, Harry Winston and the many luxury retailers lining Fifth Avenue. Jewelry is the city's third largest industry, and major auction houses like Christie's, Doyle, Sotheby's and Bonham's propel its growth. New York is also the gateway to the world's largest consumer diamond market, and the vast majority of diamonds entering the United States pass through it.

New York is one of the world capitals for art, finance, theater and design. Times Square, Rockefeller Center, the Theater District, and dozens of world-class museums and restaurants are sure to enrich your time. And its convenient public transportation lets you get to New York's many unique neighborhoods and makes it easy to take day trips outside the city.

Beyond the Classroom

- Students can attend the trade shows hosted by Jewelers of America, Manufacturing Jewelers & Suppliers of America (MJSA) and other organizations.
- The Women's Jewelry Association mentoring event helps students learn what it takes to succeed in the industry from experienced gem and jewelry professionals.
- GIA sponsors monthly lectures by industry experts and networking opportunities with alumni.
- Graduate Gemologist and Graduate Diamond students tour the Diamond Dealers Club. Jewelry Manufacturing Arts students tour engineering and casting houses.
- GIA in New York has a diverse student population that reflects New York's status as one of the world's great multicultural cities.

Scholarships opportunities and financial assistance is available for some programs to those who qualify, and may include federal student grants and loans or education benefits for US military veterans.

2020 Tuition and Fees Summary: On-Campus Programs, Courses and Lab Classes

Total charges include tuition, books, materials and applicable sales tax. Additional fees may apply. For course descriptions, admissions requirements, financial aid and other information, download the New York Campus Education Catalog at GIA.edu/new-york-campus-education-catalog

Gemology Programs	Total Charges
Graduate Gemologist® Diploma Program	$23,803.69
Graduate Diamonds Diploma Program	$7,062.10
Graduate Colored Stones Diploma Program	$16,741.59

Jewelry Manufacturing Arts Programs	Total Charges
Jewelry Design & Technology Diploma Program	$21,818.19
Jewelry Design Course	$6,416.74
Comprehensive CAD/CAM for Jewelry Course	$6,384.08

Gemology Lab Classes	Total Charges
Diamond Grading Lab	$1,677.22
Colored Stone Grading Lab	$1,122.22
Gem Identification Lab	$1,652.22
Pearl Grading Lab	$351.78

To learn more about the campus, program and course schedule and to apply, visit GIA.edu/gem-education/new-york

Scan to visit our catalog download webpage.

